Security breach in Parliament

Two intruders jump from gallery, spray gas

New Delhi, Dec. 13 (Agencies)- In a major security breach coming on the anniversary of the dastardly Dec. 13, 2001 Parliament attack, two men entered Lok Sabha this morning and opened canisters emitting a yellow-coloured smoke.

Television footage showed them jumping from desk to desk and appeared to be headed towards the Well of the House. MPs later told reporters that they were chanting slogans such as 'tana shahi nahi chalegi' (dictatorship won't be accepted). They have been detained.

West Bengal BJP MP Khagen Murmu was speaking in the Lok Sabha when the intruder was spotted inside. The proceedings were suspended and the MPs started coming out. There was a commotion as the intruder — wearing a blue jacket — was found roaming inside. The MPs and the security caught hold of the man and started interrogating them. As the MPs came out, they said the intruder(s) were spraying some kind of a gas.

Footage from the House's CCTV showed one man, wearing a dark blue shirt, leaping across desks to evade capture, while the second man was in the visitors' gallery spraying smoke. Visuals showed a Lok Sabha official reading to the House seconds before the chaos. Suddenly, voices can be heard shouting, "Catch him, catch him".

Bahujan Samaj Party MP Danish Ali told reporters that a visitor's pass was recovered after the scuffle and that it had been issued by Mysuru-Kodagu BJP MP Pratap Simmha's Office. Irrespective of who issues a pass, any visitor must clear five levels of security before being allowed inside Parliament.

Reports later said that one of the passes were signed by Pratap Simmha and the other one had the pass signed by Danish Ali — the suspended BSP MP. Security personnel found an Aadhaar card with a Lucknow address from one of the intruders.

Statue of former Suttur Mutt Seer Pramoda Devi Wadiyar REACTS

Suttur Seer

Pramoda Devi

Mysuru, Dec. 13- Following the publication of the news item titled "Let Dr. Sri Shivarathri Rajendra Swamiji statue be unveiled in your presence — Suttur Seer Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swamiji had written to royal family member Pramoda Devi Wadiyar on July 28, 2022" in yesterday's Star of Mysore, Pramoda Devi Wadiyar has reacted as below:

"It makes no sense to me to accept the invitation to be part of the suggested unveiling ceremony as I have already expressed my support to the sentiments of the members of the community. Many properties including the Vidyapeetha building was given to Suttur Mutt from the Palace by way of gift or otherwise. Under the circumstances, one hoped and expected magnanimity from the institution and devotees as well. It is true that M. Lakshminarayan carried my letter to Suttur, however he returned bringing back the letter I had written. This issue does not revolve around the reverence we have towards His Holiness Sri Shivarathri Rajendra Swamijiavaru of Suttur. The issue is limited to the CHOICE OF LOCATION to install the statue as I have already expressed my support to those who initiated this whole process of installation of the statue and appreciated the verdict of the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India."

Ambaari bus design flaw to be rectified: KSTDC

Jagadeesha

Mysuru, Dec. 13 (RK&BCT)- Following public demand, the Karnataka State Tourism Development Corporation (KSTDC) will rectify the design flaw in the popular Ambaari bus that is used for city rounds every evening. While the Ambaari bus service remains highly popular for its captivating city road illuminations, the inherent design flaws have raised concerns, including safety.

Speaking to Star of Mysore this morning, KSTDC Managing Director G. Jagadeesha said that the design flaw has come to their notice and it will be rectified in all the six Ambaari buses. "We have got representations by the public and the media and we will rectify the flaws for better visual experience by next Dasara," he said. The bus journey along the illuminated city roads, especially during Dasara, is a memorable experience for tourists favouring the top open deck. However, this section frequently becomes overcrowded as passengers stand to enjoy the best views.

A significant design flaw surfaces in the form of an elevated front top portion of the Ambaari, obstructing the view of the road ahead. This elevated structure, akin to a wall, hinders the view for individuals seated on top deck.

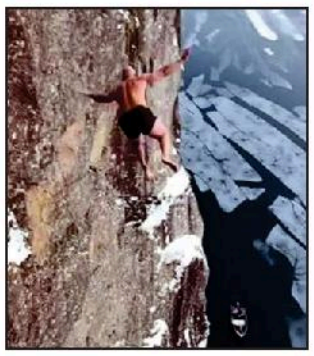
Man sets record with 40.5-mt. 'Death Dive'



Nordfjord : Norwegian death diver Ken Stornes just became the first person to perform a 'death dive' from over 40 meters, jumping from a rock wall into the icy water below.

Jumps are usually performed from a platform positioned between 10 to 15 meters above the water, but the bravest of death divers plunge from much higher, with the current record in the men's classic category sitting at 40.5 meters. It was set by Ken Stornes, a Norwegian former MMA fighter turned extreme athlete, who plunged into the icy waters of Nordfjord from a platform on the side of a tall cliff.

Asked whether he would attempt a death dive from 50 mts high, Ken Stornes said that the chance of that was unlikely, as he doesn't think "you can get away with 50 mts without serious injuries."

6-year-old solves rubik's cube in under 6 seconds

Singapore: 6-year-old Cao Qixian set the new women's world record for solving a 3x3x3 Rubik's cube in 5.97 seconds (average) at the World Cube Association Rubik's Cube International Open in Singapore.

Qixian, who hails from China's Jiangsu Province, started playing with a Rubik's cube when she was only three, inspired by a cousin who taught her the art of 'speed-cubing', solving the world-famous puzzle as quickly as possible. However, after about a year, the girl got so good at it that her cousin had nothing to teach her anymore and she enjoyed speed-solving the Rubik's cube so much that she practiced for two to three hours every day, and her time was getting better and better.

HEIGHT of Engineering?!

Sir,

It is appreciated that MCC is concerned about the services to be provided to citizens as and when there is a need. It is also appreciated that it has responded to the news regarding anomalies of repair works, wrong position of barricades on roads etc., published in Star of Mysore and immediate corrective action has been taken. Here is one more such problem to be corrected by the MCC at KHB, 4th Stage, Kuvempunagar. Recently the underground drainage work was attended and while finishing, the height of this manhole is raised about a feet above the road level, causing inconvenience.

Hence, I request the authorities concerned to take necessary action to bring it to ground level, so that the public can use the road without any hurdle.

Triple urban tigresses roaming near Mysuru raise concerns

Forest staff on the edge as tiger cubs move freely, eluding capture operation

By M.T. Yogesh Kumar

Mysuru, Dec. 13- In an unexpected turn of events, three one-and-a-half-year-old female tiger cubs have made appearances in three distinct locations near the cultural city of Mysuru, leaving Forest Department personnel puzzled and on high alert.

Dubbed the 'triple urban tigresses,' the cubs are causing mounting pressure on authorities to capture and relocate them due to concerns about potential threats to human habitation as they mature. One of the three cubs, identified as T-7, has taken shelter in a sugarcane field near Doddakanya, while the other two continue to roam in surrounding villages.

Department officers said that the mother tiger, originally from either Bandipur or Nagarahole Tiger Reserve, had been residing safely with her four cubs along the forest fringes. However, recent developments have seen her pushing the cubs out of their den, encouraging them to live freely in the wild.

The cubs, nurtured under their mother's care, diverged in separate directions a month ago, unwittingly entering villages near Mysuru. Earlier sightings by cowherds and Forest Guards in the Chikkanahalli Reserve Forest area had noted the presence of a mother tiger with four cubs, capturing the attention of villagers and necessitating camera traps.

Also, the mother tiger with four cubs was captured in the camera trap installed by the Forest Department as there were frequent complaints from the villagers about the tiger sightings.

Mother comes to safe fringes

It is suspected that the tigress, originally residing in Bandipur or Nagarhole sanctuaries, migrated to Chikkanahalli Reserve Forest while pregnant, seeking a safe haven for her cubs from other tigers. There, she gave birth to four cubs and provided for them by hunting wild animals, including rabbits, wild boars and grazing cattle.

After one and a half years of care, the mother tiger separated one cub and guided the remaining three female cubs toward an independent life. Currently, one cub roams near Doddakanya and Chikkakanya, another in various village parts, and a third has found refuge in a sugarcane field near Byathahalli on the Mysuru-Nanjangud border.

To locate the tiger at Byathahalli, a team of Forest Guards of Nanjangud Range is observing the movements through various methods including camera traps.

According to Forest Officers, the female tiger cub roaming around Doddakanya, Chikkakanya and TVS Factory for the last month is a sensitive and alert big cat. Codeworded as T-7, this tiger has encountered people five or six times but has not attempted to attack them. Seeing people, this tiger cub was running away from the place.

The Forest Department's operation to capture T-7 began on Nov. 25, with the tiger making sporadic appearances in Doddakanya, Chikkakanya and surrounding villages. While two cubs likely returned to Chikkanahalli Reserve Forest as their visuals have not been captured in the camera traps for days, T-7's elusive behaviour poses a significant challenge to capture efforts.

Staff desperate to capture

In this background, the Forest Guards are operating throughout the night to capture the elusive T-7 female tiger. However, the tiger cub makes a flash appearance once in two to three days and disappears at lightning speed. This has made the Forest staff impatient and desperate.

For the capture of T-7, Forest Department staff have discussed with experts who have opined that it is best to capture the tiger by setting up a cage or firing a tranquilliser dart when its visibility is clear. Accordingly, cages have been placed in a couple of areas.

However, it is rare for a tiger to fall into the cage trap. Another method is to give a tranquilliser shot. However, this operation has to be done patiently, waiting for the hiding tiger to emerge in the open.

Capturing the tiger poses a challenge for the Forest Department, raising questions about its release. The young tiger, having not learned to hunt larger animals, may face difficulties if released into the forest. Additionally, releasing it may draw criticism from wildlife activists, complicating the management of the captured tiger.

CCTV camera captures leopard in Yadavagiri's Sri Ramakrishna Vidyashala campus

Forest Department places cage to trap the wild cat

Mysuru, Dec. 13- A CCTV camera installed in the garden at Sri Ramakrishna Vidyashala in Yadavagiri has captured a leopard waiting for a prey on Monday night following which the Vidyashala management informed the Forest Department.

Forest officials, who immediately rushed to the spot along with their staff, conducted a combing operation but in vain. As a precautionary measure, the Forest staff yesterday placed a cage at the spot, where the leopard was spotted.

The leopard was not spotted again in the Vidyashala premises and there are chances of the leopard moving out. There is a Government School, residences and Railway Quarters near the Vidyashala and weeds and bushes have overgrown in Yadavadiri and Manjunathapura Industrial Areas.

There is a railway line passing near Sankalp Apartments with tall bushes along the stretch of the railway line. People residing nearby should be very cautious while moving around alone.

In September last year, a leopard was spotted in Gokulam and two leopards were spotted at CFTRI in January this year. Also, there was a leopard scare at Akashvani in the same month. Though cages were placed in CFTRI premises, the leopards were not trapped. Luckily, there were no reports of the leopards attacking humans.

Public are advised not to panic but take precautionary steps by not moving out of the house alone during night especially in deserted places and places where there are overgrown bushes and shrubs.

Partially devoured body of a tribal man found in Bandipur

Man suspected to have been killed by a tiger or leopard

Basavaiah

Gundlupet, Dec. 13- A partially devoured body of a tribal man, who had gone to fetch fodder for his goat was found near Nanjegowdanakatte in Mangalagudda village bordering Bandipur Reserve Forest in the taluk. It is suspected that the tribal man may have been killed by a tiger or a leopard. The deceased has been identified as Basavaiah (50), a resident of Aadinakanive tribal hamlet in Bandipur limits and his mutilated body was found yesterday at 11 am.

On Monday morning, Basavaiah had gone to the forest to get fodder for his goats. As he did not come back even on Tuesday morning, Basavaiah's father Sothamadaiah went in search of his son about a kilometre from the hamlet, bordering the forest, where he found a knife, rope and blood stained clothes and immediately informed the Forest Department officials.

Later, Special Tiger Protection Force (STPF) personnel, who reached the spot, conducted a search near Nanjegowdanakatte, found the partially eaten body of Basavaiah. Bandipur Conservator of Forests (CF) and Project Tiger Director Dr. Ramesh Kumar, Assistant Conservator of Forests (ACF) Naveen, Range Forest Officer (RFO) Deepa, Circle Inspector Parashivamurthy, Sub-Inspector Sahebagowda, Shivashankarappa and staff Rangaswamy and Nagaraju conducted a spot inspection.

Post-mortem was conducted at the spot and the body was handed over to the family members. Basavaiah is survived by his wife Jayamma, son Kempa and daughter Kullamma. A case has been registered at Gundlupet Police Station.

Samples have been sent to a laboratory to know which animal had killed Basavaiah and the place where the body was found was inspected.

CF Dr. Ramesh Kumar said that taking into consideration that Basavaiah had entered into the forest illegally and was killed by wild animals, compensation cannot be provided. Discussions will be held to see if compensation can be provided in Government level on humanitarian grounds.

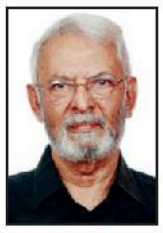
T. S. SATYAN: A tribute on his centenary

By Ashvini Ranjan

December 18, 2023, marks the birth centenary of T.S. Satyan, a famous son of Mysore, a renowned photojournalist.



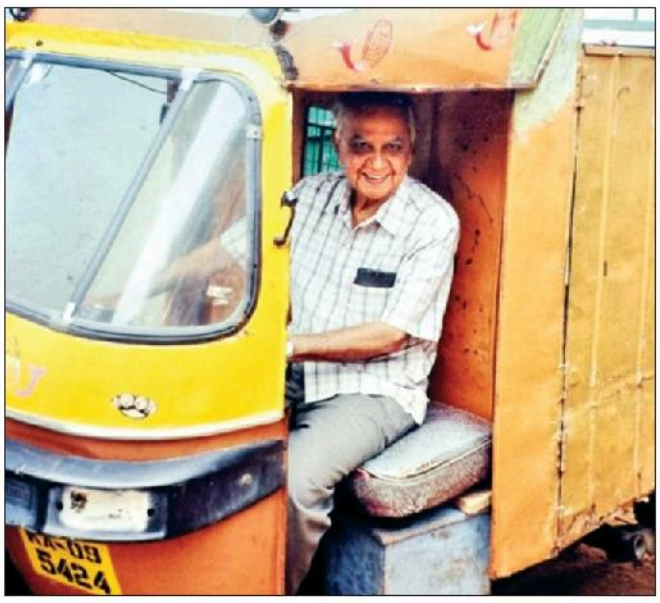
Ashvini Ranjan

Satyan's photography skills were legendary, displayed at the United Nations Headquarters building in New York in 1977. He received the Padma Shri award in 1979 from the Government of India, along with numerous other awards.

His photos graced prestigious international magazines like TIME, Newsweek and LIFE. In India, he worked with the now-defunct Illustrated Weekly of India and Deccan Herald newspaper. During his peak, he photographed great personalities like Rabindranath Tagore, Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, Indira Gandhi, the Dalai Lama, among others. He also undertook projects for the World Health Organisation (WHO) with the one on Small Pox Eradication being well-known. Rich and famous sought his skills, yet his passion lay in capturing the images of common people in their everyday lives and habitats.

I first met Satyan in 1998 through his son, Nagendra, the CEO of a software company in Bangalore. Nagendra approached me, as a stranger, to rent a building we owned in Bangalore. In the course of discussion, he disclosed his Mysore roots and about his father.

Delighted, I had no hesitation in expressing my admiration. This revelation facilitated the quick conclusion of negotiations, making Nagendra's company the tenant of my building. Upon my request, Nagendra introduced me to his father.



T.S. Satyan [December 18, 1923 - December 13, 2009]

Satyan's house in Mysore was a mere ten-minute drive from mine, a case of 'so near yet so far' from meeting a childhood hero. As a young boy aspiring to become a photographer, I had admired Satyan's photographs in the Illustrated Weekly of India. His Black and White pictures of common people were unique and candid. I assumed he would be a 'larger than life' figure, but upon meeting him, I was impressed with his gentleness, simplicity and warmth. He insisted I address him without a prefix, calling him Satyan. Excited about meeting him, I invited him and his wife Rathna for a meal at my house, a request he accepted gladly.

In 2002, my wife Shashi and I embarked on a journey to start Pratham Mysore, an NGO focused on educating slum children. Satyan, always drawn to the magic of capturing children through his lens, frequently joined our activities.

It was during these moments that I had the privilege of observing him in action. His ability to connect with the subjects and bring out their natural expressions was a true art form. When I asked him for the secret behind his photography, he offered a simple yet profound piece of advice: "Keep trying, and you will get there."

It took ten years to learn the essence of taking good pictures. I had all along focused on his camera and technicalities, but I had missed the man behind the camera. Satyan's celebrity status never influenced him; he was short, soft-spoken, gentle and smiling. This persona put his subjects at ease, as he seldom showed his camera until ready to shoot. The naturalness of the subject is lost when people are self-conscious or intimidated by the sight of a camera. Satyan's camera came out of his bag when he decided to shoot, disappearing once the picture was taken. The biggest lesson was clear: to take good pictures, the person behind the camera is as important as the camera itself.

The nature of the man reflected in his speech and writing. Regardless of the language he spoke, he connected with common people, displaying a remarkable sense of humour. Most of the time, he would be the butt of jokes, putting people at ease. His writing mirrored his speech, gentle and easy-flowing. The combination of writing and photos enhanced the quality of his pictures, earning him the title 'The Father of Indian Photo Journalism.'

Despite acquiring money, name and fame, Satyan was generous, giving away many of his famous pictures free of cost. Even I possess one such autographed photo. After his demise, Satyan's family generously donated all photos to charity and to the Museum of Art and Photography (MAP) in Bangalore for posterity.

In an emotional conversation at my home one evening, Satyan shared his thoughts on the transient nature of life, stating, 'we will all vanish one day, leaving behind only prose and poetry.' True to his words, he left behind a rich legacy of prose, eloquently intertwined with his indelible photographs, a form of poetry that will endure.

Beyond the celebrity, beyond the photographer and a photojournalist, Satyan was, to me, a cherished friend and, above all, a good human being. His passing on December 13, 2009, was an irreparable loss. A fitting tribute to this illustrious son of Mysore would be the establishment of a government gallery, a place where his photographs can continue to weave their magic, captivating generations to come.

It must be a multi-purpose Art Gallery where not only photo artists but also fine artists could hold their exhibition and sale, apart from a seminar hall and classroom for conducting creative workshop.

T.S. Satyan may have left this world, but his art, his warmth and his lessons endure, ensuring that he lives on in the hearts of those who had the privilege of knowing him and seeing his photographs.

Ambaari bus

Consequently, passengers find themselves compelled to stand for an unobstructed view, leading to a domino effect where those in the rear rows also rise to capture the scenery and take photographs.

This situation results in a hazardous scenario, with passengers standing on the bus, holding side railings and even climbing on seats. The quest for the best view has sparked disagreements among passengers.

The existing side railing bars fall short in height, posing an additional risk, particularly for children and senior citizens who are the most vulnerable in this setting. "We have taken note of the required changes to be done and we will initiate work soon to complete them by 2024 Dasara," Jagadeesha said.

While all the six buses are operational every year during Dasara at present, only one bus takes passengers on city rounds every day. "We have sent two buses to Gadag and Savadatti (Saundatti) as there was a demand for circuit routes there. Three buses have been parked at the Bannimantap KSRTC Depot. We will send buses if the district administrations place a request for circuit tours," he added.

Rs. 4 crore renovation works on at Karnataka Guest House, Ooty

Mysuru, Dec. 13 (RK&BCT)- The Karnataka State Tourism Development Corporation (KSTDC) is renovating the heritage 'Karnataka Guest House' in Ooty at a cost of Rs. 4 crore. Over 80 percent of renovation works have been completed and the Guest House will be formally inaugurated by the end of January 2024.

Speaking to Star of Mysore this morning, KSTDC Managing Director G. Jagadeesha said that the Guest House, exquisitely constructed by using wood, is located at Fern Hill in Ooty. "The Guest House was built by the Maharajas of Mysore and Dewan Poornaiah oversaw the construction. It was built for the convenience of the tourists and guests who come to Ooty from Mysuru," he said.

Once renovated, the Guest House, surrounded by verdant pastures and hills, will offer a rejuvenating stay experience with comfortable rooms, modern amenities and striking views of the gardens.

"The Karnataka Government has initiated the project and it is in completion stage. The Guest House features a beautiful lush green garden and offers easy access to the Karnataka Horticulture Garden, located 200 metres away," he added.

Trains between Mysuru and Bengaluru every 10 minutes

Railway Board unveils ambitious plan for enhanced connectivity; quadrupling tracks between two cities

Bengaluru, Dec. 13 (KMS& BCT)- In a significant move aimed at enhancing travel infrastructure and fostering economic growth, the Railway Board has made the decision to operate trains between Mysuru and Bengaluru at intervals of 10 minutes. This initiative is poised to offer passengers a swifter, safer, and more comfortable travel experience.

The proposed metro-style trains connecting the two cities are part of a broader plan to quadruple the existing tracks on this route, addressing the escalating demand for improved connectivity. The Railway Board has given the green light for the final location survey for quadrupling in Bangarpet-Jolarpet, Bengaluru-Tumakuru, and Bengaluru-Mysuru sections. Additionally, approval has been granted for the final location survey of a circular railway encompassing the outskirts of Bengaluru.

Upon completion of the quadrupling project, two sets of trains (exclusive Mysuru-Bengaluru and Mysuru to other destinations) will operate between Mysuru and Bengaluru, with the additional tracks laid alongside the existing ones. Simultaneously, electrification works will be undertaken, as stated by Railway Board officials.

Unlike Metro systems, suburban systems in all Indian cities are integrated into the Indian railway network, ensuring optimal infrastructure utilisation. Presently, K-RIDE is mandated to construct four corridors within Bengaluru city limits.

The collaboration between the current and future Indian Railways network, coupled with initiatives by the South Western Railway, is expected to significantly enhance commuter traffic connectivity between Bengaluru City and satellite towns.

This rail project is anticipated to be a game-changer in alleviating traffic congestion, holding immense potential. Future plans include suburban trains operating at a frequency of 10 minutes, covering extensive areas in Bengaluru and its surrounding cities.

One more Vande Bharat train: Furthermore, Bengaluru is poised to receive an additional Vande Bharat Express service connecting the capital of Karnataka to Coimbatore in Tamil Nadu. This service, long awaited by the public, responds to the frequent travel needs between the two cities.

While specific timings for the Vande Bharat Express are yet to be announced, it is noteworthy that the existing Uday Express currently operates in the morning with a travel time of approximately 7 hours.

However, the potential launch of the Vande Bharat Express raises considerations about timings, given its semi-high-speed nature and the associated cost implications for regular commuters. If implemented, this would mark the second Vande Bharat Express between Bengaluru and neighbouring Tamil Nadu, complementing the existing train that covers the Chennai-Bengaluru-Mysuru route, inaugurated by PM Narendra Modi in November last year.

Mohan Yadav takes oath as CM of MP

Bhopal, Dec. 13 (Agencies)- BJP's Mohan Yadav took oath as the Chief Minister of Madhya Pradesh (MP) in Bhopal this morning. The swearing-in event was attended by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Union Home Minister Amit Shah, BJP President J.P. Nadda and the CMs of BJP-ruled States among others.

Mohan Yadav

The State also has two Dy. CMs — Rajendra Shukla and Jagdish Devda. They also took oath along with Mohan Yadav. The ceremony took place at the Lal Parade Ground in Bhopal. Before going for the oath ceremony, Yadav visited a temple in Bhopal.

He also went to the State BJP office to pay respects to Pandit Deendayal Upadhyaya, one of the Founding-Members of the Jana Sangh and BJP's founding ideologue Syama Prasad Mookerjee.

A large number of BJP workers, especially from Yadav's hometown Ujjain, were also present for the ceremony. The three-time BJP MLA, as prominent OBC leader with close ties to RSS, has ascended to the position of Chief Minister in Madhya Pradesh at the age of 58.

Breaking the long-standing dominance of four-time CM Shivraj Singh Chouhan, Yadav's unexpected appointment is seen as a strategic move by the BJP to appeal to the influential Other Backward Classes (OBC) community, which constitutes over 48 percent of the State's population.

Yadav, born on March 25, 1965, in Ujjain, commenced his political journey as a student leader and steadily climbed the political ladder. Known for his vocal Hindutva stance, he has been associated with the RSS since his youth. A seasoned politician, Yadav served as the Higher Education Minister in the previous Shivraj Singh Chouhan Government, making headlines by introducing the Hindu epic 'Ramcharitmanas' as an optional subject in colleges. His political career began in 1982 as the Joint Secretary of Madhav Science College in Ujjain, where he later became the President in 1984.

Yadav's elevation as Chief Minister marks the end of an era dominated by Shivraj Singh Chouhan and underscores the BJP's efforts to diversify its leadership. His unexpected rise is seen as an attempt to consolidate support from the OBC community ahead of the upcoming Lok Sabha elections.

Two intruders jump from gallery in LS

Leader of Congress in Lok Sabha (LS) Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury said: "Two young men jumped from the gallery and something was hurled by them from which gas was emitting. They were caught by MPs, they were brought out by security personnel. The House was adjourned till 2 pm. This is certainly a security breach because today we observed the death anniversary of people who sacrificed their lives in 2001."

MP Karti Chidambaram said that the canisters were emitting yellow smoke, and raised concerns that it could have been poisonous. Suddenly two young men around 20 years old jumped into the House from the visitor's gallery and had canisters in their hand.

These canisters were emitting yellow smoke. One of them was attempting to run towards the Speaker's chair. They were shouting some slogans," he said.

Two other individuals — a man and a woman — were detained outside Parliament, also with coloured smoke canisters that exploded and spewed red and yellow smoke. Delhi Police sources said that the two incidents are likely related.

Serious questions are already being questioned about the security breach, which comes on the 22nd anniversary of the terror attack on the old Parliament building. In fact, hours earlier, Prime Minister Narendra Modi led a tribute to the nine soldiers who were killed.

On launching the digital services, Dr. Venkatesh said, "This initiative allows for advanced care right from the patient's location, throughout their journey to the hospital, and even within the emergency room."

Hub-and-Spoke Model: Through the Hub-and-Spoke model, we expand our reach in rural areas, bridging the gap between urban and rural healthcare. Emergency centres have been established in three locations surrounding Mysuru, connecting them to the central hub at Apollo. This model will ensure timely access to emergency care for patients in Hunsur, Nanjangud and shortly expand to other areas.

Real-time Patient Monitoring: A real-time patient monitoring system will enable 24x7 uninterrupted streaming of patient data to doctors and healthcare professionals, whether the patient is at home, in the ambulance, or at the hospital anywhere, anytime.

Comprehensive Home Care: The hospital is expanding its home care services to provide seamless patient care in the comfort of their homes. This comprehensive service will ensure that patients receive the care they need without leaving their homes.

Hari Subramaniam said, "Our commitment to providing world-class care to all extends beyond the hospital walls. Through this comprehensive digital transformation initiative, we aim to bridge the gap between urban and rural healthcare, ensure real-time patient monitoring, and offer seamless connected care in ambulance, in hospital and at home. This is a significant step towards our vision of a healthier and happier India."

Transport Department to create awareness on HSRP

Bengaluru, Dec. 13- Motorists getting their vehicles fitted with High-Security Registration Number Plates (HSRP) is gradually picking pace with the deadline extended to Feb. 17, 2024.

The State Transport Department is confident that all vehicles that were registered before April 2019 would fall in line before the extended deadline and the Department is also gearing up to create publicity and awareness about HSRP among residents.

The Ministry of Road Transport and Highways (MoRTH) has made it compulsory to fix HSRP number plates to all old vehicles. One of the primary reasons was to prevent misuse of vehicles by changing number plates by easily removing them. However, HSRP number plates cannot be removed once fixed as they are affixed using rivets, thereby eliminating any scope for the exchange of number plates.

Additional Transport Commissioner (Enforcement South) C. Mallikarjuna said that "With the RTOs located across the State, we will create awareness about the importance of HSRP to motivate people to consider it seriously. After the Government gives its nod, we will start giving wide publicity through advertisements."

Crime prevention: DCP focuses on public-Police partnership

'72 chain-snatchings in 2022, 12 to 13 in 2023; cases less as most criminals are in jail'

DCP (Law and Order) M. Muthuraj addressing the 'Beat Citizen Committee Members' from Krishnaraja (KR) Sub-Division and Lakshmipuram Police Station at the Institution of Engineers-India (IEI) in city last evening. The event was organised as part of the ongoing 'Crime Prevention Month.'

Mysuru, Dec. 13 (SPN&BCT)- In fostering a secure and harmonious society, it is imperative for the public to actively cooperate with the Police in detecting and preventing crime, said Deputy Commissioner of Police (DCP) - Law and Order, M. Muthuraj.

"This public-Police collaborative approach forms the bedrock of a community-centric strategy to enhance safety, contributing to the overall well-being of individuals and the collective fabric of society," he said. The DCP was speaking to 'Beat Citizen Committee Members' from Krishnaraja (KR) Sub-Division, Lakshmipuram Police Station at the Institution of Engineers-India (IEI) in city last evening. The event was organised as part of the ongoing 'Crime Prevention Month.'

The Police play a pivotal role in maintaining public order and safety and to implement the provisions of the Constitution. However, their effectiveness is significantly amplified when they receive active cooperation from the community. "By forging a partnership with the public, the Police gain valuable insights, local knowledge and a network of vigilant eyes and ears that collectively act as an effective mechanism in crime prevention," Muthuraj added.

Timely reporting of suspicious activities

One of the fundamental ways the public can contribute is through timely reporting of suspicious activities or individuals. "You are often the first witnesses to potential criminal behaviour and your vigilance can be instrumental in thwarting criminal activities before they escalate. Informing suspicious activities at local level, mohallas and also roads will go a long way in curbing crime," Muthuraj said.

Engaging in community watch, neighbourhood patrols, and maintaining open lines of communication with the Police fosters a sense of shared responsibility for public safety, he said. "When a person approaches your house seeking rental accommodation, the jurisdictional Police can verify the antecedents of that person for Rs. 620. This will save a lot of future trouble," the DCP said.

Chain-snatching cases decreases

In 2022, 72 chain-snatching incidents were within the Mysuru city limits and all the cases have been cracked and the perpetrators have been sent to jail. In 2023, 12 to 13 chain-snatching cases have been booked. "Cases are less in 2023, as most of the chain-snatchers are behind bars and there is no one to continue the trade," Muthuraj noted.

He asked women not to wear gold ornaments while stepping outside their houses and to cover themselves with scarves, to protect themselves from chain-snatching bids. "We request people, especially those who go out for morning walks, to not wear gold jewellery and carry precious items along with them, as it may attract miscreants and chain-snatchers. Cover yourselves properly with scarves to conceal the jewellery and other valuable items," he said.

Good touch and bad touch

In the wake of increasing child molestation and sexual exploitation cases, the DCP advised parents to demonstrate a vital lesson on distinguishing between good touch and bad touch.

"Parents must act with the utmost sensitivity and care and demonstrate various touches to educate children about what constitutes appropriate and inappropriate physical contact. This essential lesson empowers children with knowledge that can help protect them from potential harm and abuse," he added.

Never share OTP

Muthuraj said that one must stay vigilant against offers promising quick money or attractive rewards. Legitimate opportunities are rarely too good to be true and usually require effort and time.

"If you come across part-time job offers or work-from-home opportunities, verify the legitimacy of the company and their contact information. Scammers often use fake job offers to lure victims. It is crucial to raise awareness about online fraud and take necessary precautions to protect oneself from falling victim to such scams. Never share sensitive information with unknown individuals, verify the authenticity of communication from banks or organisations and report suspicious activities immediately," he added.

KR ACP S.E. Gangadharaswamy, Lakshmipuram Inspector Ravishankar, Ashokapuram Inspector Ramesh & Kuvempunagar Inspector Arun were present.

Woman arrested for killing mother over petty issue

Buries body, lodges missing complaint after six-seven months

Sharadamma

Mysuru, Dec. 13 (RK&KS)- Varuna Police, on Monday, have arrested a woman on charges of killing her mother over petty reasons, burying the body and lodging a missing complaint after six to seven months. The Police have also arrested her husband in the case.

The incident had taken place in Mandya about a year back and Varuna Inspector Chethan and staff have successfully cracked the case. The Cops, who got suspicious after the accused woman lodged a missing complaint after many months, investigated the case and arrested the woman and her husband. The accused couple have two daughters who are under the care of relatives.

Anusha

Devaraj

While the accused couple are Anusha and Devaraj, the deceased is Sharadamma, a resident of Hebbakavadi village in Mandya district.

Details: Sharadamma, after her husband's death, was staying alone in Hebbakavadi village. She had got her daughter married to one Devaraj of Harohalli in Mysuru district.

In the meantime, Sharadamma began to suffer from eye problems and as she was staying alone, she had asked her daughter Anusha to get her treated. But due to financial problems, Anusha delayed in getting her mother's eye treated resulting in Sharadamma getting upset on Anusha.

In November 2022, Anusha brought her mother to her husband's house and got her eye treated in Mysuru. After getting her mother treated, Anusha, along with her husband Devaraj, brought Sharadamma to Hebbakavadi village to drop her to her home, during which Sharadamma expressed her displeasure against Anusha over the delay in getting her eyes treated.

This resulted in wordy duel between Sharadamma and Anusha and in a fit of rage, Anusha pushed her mother. Sharadamma lost her balance and fell down. While falling, Sharadamma's head hit the cot resulting in her breathing her last on the spot.

Shocked over the incident, the couple shifted the body of Sharadamma to the village burial ground late in the night and buried the body. They later returned to Harohalli.

But whenever relatives enquired about Sharadamma with Anusha, she used to tell them that she had gone out of station. But when Sharadamma was not seen in the village even after six to seven months, Anusha's relatives told her to lodge a missing complaint. Meanwhile, Sharadamma's sister Devamma and her daughter called Anusha over the phone and told her that they would lodge a missing complaint with the Police if she did not do so.

Left with no other option, Anusha lodged a missing complaint at Varuna Police Station in June. She had stated in the complaint that her mother had come to get her eyes treated and has gone missing, Inspector Chethan said.

Based on the complaint, Varuna Police, who registered a missing case, began their investigation but had suspicion on Anusha's behaviour. Also, her relatives had expressed their suspicion on Anusha. In this backdrop, Inspector Chethan, who took the case seriously, interrogated Anusha, during which she spilled the beans.

A case was registered under IPC Section 304 (culpable homicide not amounting to murder) against Anusha and her husband Devaraj and arrested them.

As the incident had taken place at Hebbakavadi, the case was transferred to Mandya district. Future course of action will be initiated after the case is transferred to the jurisdictional Police Station.

WORD OF THE DAY

Olfactory

Pronunciation: ahl-FAK-tuh-ree.
Meaning: Olfactory describes things that have to do with the sense of smell.
Origin: No, olfactory is not a noun meaning "a place that makes scents"; for that, you want perfumery, which makes more sense. Olfactory is instead an adjective used to describe things related to one's sense of smell, that which lets you detect fruit with your snoot, a leek with your beak, Shiraz with your schnozz. Olfactory comes from the Latin word olfacere ("to smell"), which in turn combines two verbs, olēre ("to give off a smell") and facere ("to do"). It often appears in scientific contexts (as in "olfactory nerves," the nerves that pass from the nose to the brain and contain the receptors that make smelling possible), but it is occasionally used in less technical writing and speech. The pleasant smell of hot mulled cider, for example, might be considered an "olfactory delight," depending on the spices and your own sensibilities, of course. As they say, the nose knows.
Example: "Dogs are uniquely positioned to collect data that helps humans track and preserve endangered species—and find invasive species—because of their exceptional sense of smell. Dogs have millions more olfactory receptor cells than humans." — Sydney Page, The Washington Post, 9 Sept. 2023

THE ODD WORD

Obstreperous

Noisy; unruly.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

On the fence

Meaning: The phrase 'On the fence' is used to describe being undecided about something.
Origin: The origin of the phrase 'On the fence' has its roots in Middle English, when the word 'fens', short for 'defens' was originated. Later, an "e" was added to the term to form the word defense as it is used today. Fences often define ownership, and to sit on a physical fence is to straddle a position between two different properties. Metaphorically, sitting on the fence is straddling the position between two ideas without committing to either of them.
Example: "Has he decided whether he will take the job yet?" Answer: "No, he's still on the fence."
